RICOH
imagine. change.

The Business Challenge

You're always looking for better ways to capture, transform and manage information flow. Scanning paper documents is a key step to getting documents where you need them, when you need them. But documents that are crumpled, damaged or contain staples can slow everything down – from production scanning devices to workflow to job completion. Mis-fed sheets that are scanned later are critical to finalizing the job. Ricoh can help you scan smarter.

Improve speed. Gain efficiencies. Reduce risk.

Ricoh MP C3503/MP C4503/MP C5503 Multifunction Devices are designed to work alongside production scanning hardware to enable simultaneous exception scanning and production scanning. These machines, combined with GlobalScan NX, can convert scanned paper documents into electronic files and route them to their destinations. This accelerated workflow can bring productivity to your scanning department along with enhanced sharing and collaboration.

	Is exception scanning slowing down your scanning department's productivity? Ricoh helps you save time and resources by providing a way for you to handle exception scanning and production scanning simultaneously. You also add valuable redundancy to your workflow and additional functionality such as fax, copy and print capability.
	Are you looking for cost-effective ways to streamline your production scanning workflow? Our line of innovative multi-functional devices combined with our third party production scanners complement your existing digital workflows by combining high-quality, full-colour output with other capabilities that make scanning easier, more accurate and faster.
	Do your IT initiatives include upgrading your scanning systems? Digitalization is quickly becoming a leading efficiency strategy for many insurance companies. Ricoh's solution not only brings added capability to your scanning department, it also routes scanned data to your Enterprise Content Management (ECM) or Business Process Management (BPM) system for access by the people who need it, when and where they need it, reducing scanning turnaround time and increasing the amount of scanning your department can accomplish. Ricoh understands your need for increased efficiency and delivers it to you with our Exception Scanning for Insurance Solution.
